In postindustrial economies such as the United States and Great Britain, the black/white achievement gap is perpetuated by an emphasis on language and language skills, with which black American and black British-Caribbean youths often struggle. This work analyzes the nature of educational pedagogy in the contemporary capitalist world-system under American hegemony. Mocombe and Tomlin interpret the role of education as an institutional or ideological apparatus for capitalist domination, and examine the sociolinguistic means or pedagogies by which global and local social actors are educated within the capitalist world-system to serve the needs of capital; i.e., capital accumulation. Two specific case studies, one in the United States and one in the United Kingdom, are utilized to demonstrate how contemporary educational emphasis on language and literacy parallels the organization of work and contributes to the debate on academic underachievement of black students vis-a-vis their white and Asian counterparts. Language Arts 4 Today, Grade 2 Routledge

Remedia Publications

The book explores the remedial pedagogy applied during intervention designed to improve the students' metacognitive processes of learning new English-language knowledge. Today's globalization and technology on social behaviors demand that school-age students acquire reading skills by the use of audio-visual practices. The linguistic integrations during the intervention processes combined with direct instruction produced an individualized awareness of improvements in comprehension. Each student cognitively processed the audio input and visual text. My findings were related to the cultural practices of ESOL and ELL students to counteract the mismatch between home and school language frameworks. This type of technique encourages students to use the concepts of the English language related to what they hear, read, and speak within and outside of the school environment.
